

What's the Difference?

Compare the two rock pool environments:

- What factors affecting survival may be the same?
- What factors affecting survival may be different?
- How will these difference and similarities affect the type of organisms found in the two pools?
- Do you think that there may be significant structural differences in organisms from the two pools? Give examples and support your argument with evidence.
- Design an experiment to test your theories.

