CONVERSATION WITH A DIFFERENCE

We are trying something different for our May Conservation Conversation on Wednesday 20th May: MEMBERS NIGHT - an opportunity for you share with the rest of us the interesting stuff you have been doing in the nature/conservation/research space this year.

Please email reimaginebluff2022@gmail.com by the end of this week (Sunday 10th May) if you would like to tell all in 5 minutes or less.

Then in June we will be hearing about ocean literacy from two Deakin University researchers.

Wednesday, May 20, 7pm for 7.30

RADIO MARINARA ON 3RRR

Mark Rodrigue was a guest on Radio RRR's Sunday morning program 'Radio Marinara' recently. You can listen to the episode here, in which Mark chats with Dr's Beech and Boxshall re local Rock Lobsters, as well as a chat about harmful algal blooms in South Australia and an interview on ocean literacy with Prue Frances.

SNORKELLING THE SANCTUARY

We haven't had a lot of good snorkelling conditions for getting out into Barwon Bluff Marine Sanctuary over the last few months. However, a few members took advantage of good conditions recently at BBMS and at Point Lonsdale. Pictures featured here by Chris Porter are a Horseshoe Leatherjacket at BBMS and a wall of encrusting sessile invertebrates (sponges, sea squirts and bryozoans) at Pt Lonsdale.
